Garfield Not Disposed to Call an Extra Session.

PROSPECTIVE OFFICIAL CHANGES

The Democrats Adhere to their Policy of Senate Organization—Mrs. Hayes' Portrait Presented to the President—Gov. Confirmed, Etc., Etc., Etc.

SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—It is apparent that there will be tremendous pressure brought to bear upon the president for the removal of persons now in office and the appointment of new applicants. At one time to-day fully five hundred office seekers were at the White House endeavoring to get an audience with the president and present their papers. Very few of them were admitted and the president said emphatically to a senator who had called with an applicant that he would not make any removals at present and intended to require all papers asking for appointments to come through the proper departments. There was disappointment to-day that the president did not send to the senate some important nominations, those sent in being for minor places. It is understood however that some days will elapse before any important nominations are made. The impression prevails that Judge Bancroft Davis will go into the state department as assistant secretary, resigning his judgeship on the court of claims bench. It is known that he can have the place if he will take it. The appointment of Edward McPherson as first assistant postmaster general in the place of Gen. Tyner is considered certain, unless Gen. James interposes an objection and has a choice of his own. Wm. E. Chandler is still talked of as solicitor general for the department of justice in place of Judge Phillips, but the latter is strongly backed and doubts are entertained whether he can be displaced without a great fight. Ex-Secretary Evarts denies that he contemplates going abroad and says that he intends to resume the practice of law.

Calling on Garfield

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The president this morning received the Illinois and Michigan delegations.

Grant Visits Garfield

General Grant called on President Garfield this morning.

Other Callers—Bad State of Affairs in Alabama.

The crowd at the executive mansion to-day was smaller than heretofore. Senator Conger with a party of ladies and gentlemen called to pay their respects. In addition to these a delegation of Alabama republicans was admitted. They presented a statement showing the condition of their state and earnestly requested the president to consider the same. Reference was made to the election law of the state as opening wide the door to fraud and rendering detection and punishment impossible and it was stated that elections in that state are little more than farces. The president's attention was earnestly invited to these statements with a view of remedying, as much as possible, the evils which exists.

General and Mrs. Grant breakfast with president and Mrs. Garfield to-morrow.

The Republicans will Urge an Extra Session.

Republican senators talk quite confidently of an extra session to meet May 15th. Those who recently opposed now favor it because of the democrats forcing organization. A committee will wait on Garfield at once and urge it. The republicans are now acting in concert and will secure their aim.

Garfield Wishes to Avoid an Extra Session

If an extra session be called it would be to pass the funding bill. President Garfield does not want an extra session if it can be avoided.

Foreign Appointments.

The president to-day appointed the following U. S. consuls: John L. Frisbie, of Michigan, at Rheims; P. M. Etea of Nevada at Guayaquil; Albert Rhodes of D. C. at Rouen; Edward Backus of Illinois at Pera; Emilie Courtel at La Union; John A. Holderman of Kansas at Bangkok; Abbott L. Doen at Aleppo; India John F. [illegible] New Jersey at Nuevo Leoria.

Senate Organization

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The democrats are greatly retarded in organizing senate committees by numerous changes in the senate which will necessitate a careful study of adaptability and tastes of the new members in assigning them. A committee will be appointed to wait on republicans and ask them to arrange the minority. The republicans held no caucus to-day but maintain the same attitude as yesterday. A democratic friend of Mahone says that he will vote with the democrats, but the republicans still claim him. Mahone is mum.

Secretary Hunt Assumes his New Duties.

Immediately after the adjournment of the cabinet Secretary of the Navy Hunt formally received the chiefs of bureaus and other officers, all of whom were introduced by ex-Secretary G. T. [illegible]. During the remainder of the afternoon the secretary was busy receiving friends.

Presentation of Mrs. Hayes' Picture

This morning Miss Willard in behalf of temperance ladies presented to President Garfield in a felicitous speech the portrait of Mrs. Hayes.

President Garfield most cordially received the picture, paying a beautiful tribute to its subject, whom he said should ever be at home in the White House. He paid a fitting compliment to the address of Miss Willard and expressed his hearty appreciation of their work and their prayers for and kind allusions to his mother, wife and children. The company were then presented to the president and wife. Miss Ransom on behalf of the ladies sought a meeting with President Garfield's mother, which was accorded and she was ushered into the blue room and received sincere evidence of the loving regard and esteem of the visiting ladies.

A Warning to Postmaster James.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Telegram's Washington special says the National Republican, controlled by Second Assistant Postmaster General Brady, editorially warns Postmaster General James this morning that it will not do for him to set up as a reformer or to do anything that may cast a reflection upon the administration of his predecessors. It says that any imputation upon the business methods or honesty of those who have had recent control of the postoffice will be disastrous to his best interests and detrimental to those of the party.

Honors to the New Secretary

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Secretary Windom was serenaded at his residence to-night by the Minnesota state republican association. Congratulations, speeches, etc., were the order. The new secretary said that it had been the greatest struggle of his life to determine whether he should accept this unsought honor. His speech was a whole souled hearty one.

Foreign Enough for Hurlbert.

WASHINGTON, March 9.—Ex-Congressman Hurlbert of Illinois, who is said to be an applicant for the Mexican mission, says himself that he has no such ambition but would like to go to California, which in his opinion is as foreign a country as he would care to live in.

Surplus Revenue

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Treasury officials estimate the surplus revenue for the remaining four months of the present fiscal year at $45,000,000. According to this estimate and exhibit there will be a surplus of $[illegible] available between now and June 30th with which the secretary may purchase and [illegible] bonds.

Bullion Transfer Ordered.

The treasury superintendent has just ordered the transfer of $4,807,937 gold bullion from the New York assay office to the mint at Philadelphia for coinage into eagles.

Secretary Kirkwood Takes Charge

Secretary Kirkwood took charge to-day of the interior department and received the heads of bureaus, who were introduced by ex-Secretary Schurz, who then took formal leave of the department employes.

Naval.

Rear Admiral Wyman says that owing to a strong current in the Mississippi river this month and strict economy enjoined in the use of coal during the remainder of the fiscal year the Kearsarge will not be sent up the river. The Alliance will proceed from New Orleans up the Mississippi to Natchez, stopping at Baton Rouge.

Lost or Led Astray.

The Evening Star has the following editorial squib under the head of "Lost or Led Astray":

What has become of that crack San Francisco military company which was to have come on to President Garfield's inauguration and for the expenses of which it was telegraphed that the sum of $[illegible]0,000 had been raised in that city? It did not put in an appearance here on the 4th. What has become of it? Has it been lost or led astray en route, or was the whole announcement but a cheat and delusive advertisement of California patriotism and liberality?

More Talk about Places under the New Administration

WASHINGTON, March 8.—It has been definitely decided to appoint Wm. E. Chandler solicitor general of the department of justice and his nomination will be sent to the senate before the close of the special session.

Edward McPherson explicitly denies that he is an applicant for the position of first assistant postmaster general. Ex-Postmaster Chancey F. Filley of St. Louis seems likely to get it and Tyner will probably be given a good place abroad.

Gen. John A. Bingham, of Ohio, will not be disturbed as minister to Japan.

It is reported that President Garfield, after a conference with Secretary Blaine and Attorney General McVeagh, has decided to renominate Stanley Matthews for the supreme court vacancy. The statement is made with great positiveness, but cannot be verified, and it seems doubtful.

Commissioner LeDuc is believed to be booked for displacement and ex-Representative Loring, of Massachusetts, appears to have the inside track of all the numerous competitors for his succession. Orange Judd, the well known editor of the American Agriculturist, is also well supported for this appointment, and ex-Congressman Felton, of Georgia, will likewise make a push for it.

The republicans of the Indiana congressional delegation to-day agreed to make the following recommendation: John A. New, to be assistant secretary of the treasury, J. W. Gordon, to succeed Judge [illegible] in the court of claims, and U. S. Marshal D. [illegible] to be commissioner of patents. As to Hanna [illegible] in the campaign and has as yet received but little, these recommendations are expected to have weight.

J. Bancroft Davis has decided to resign from the court of claims and accept a position as assistant secretary of state, which President Garfield and Secretary Blaine have urged upon his acceptance, which it is expected may be made a little [illegible] in order to retain the benefit of his services.

Garfield will not Call an Extra Session

There is a good deal of talk among the politicians about an extra session of congress. President Garfield has no present intention of calling it and unless some unforeseen necessity arises he is not likely to change his mind. Looking at the question from a party point of view it would manifestly be a bad policy for him to precipitate an organization of the house of representatives until the vacancies in the seats of Messrs. Conger, Hawley, Mitchell and Frye shall have been filled, as the republicans even then would hardly be able to master their [illegible] majority, and it is equally evident that a call for an extra session would be unpopular with the general public unless some unquestionable justification could be assigned for it. The only weighty motive thus far suggested is the alleged need of a refunding law, but in reply to this argument it is asserted that the secretary of the treasury has over one hundred millions of 4 per cents which can be used for refunding the 5s and 6s that will soon be redeemable but not payable; and aside from this consideration the treasury surplus present and prospective is so large that a goodly portion of the debt can be absolutely redeemed before the next congress makes further provision.

A Significant Article from Senator Mahone's Organ.

Yesterday's issue of the Richmond Whig, Senator Mahone's organ, contains the following as an editorial reply to a local contemporary's strictures upon the "Sphinx of the Senate." It seems thus far to be the nearest approach to any definite response to the anxious inquiry, how will Mahone vote? "The northern [illegible] understand how the bourbons in the legislature could agree to vote for General Wickham, republican, for U. S. senator, to defeat Gen. Mahone without detriment to their democracy, but they cannot understand that there may be good and sufficient reasons not at all affecting his politics why Gen. Mahone should vote for [illegible] for secretary of the senate, a mere ministerial officer, from that body. We do not know how Gen. Mahone will vote, whether for or against Mr. Gorham, but we do know that he will cast no vote in that body that will help the bourbon funders or the grip sack funders of Virginia if he is aware of it. If his vote for Mr. Gorham or any other man will help either wing of Virginia fundism be sure he will not cast it, and don't you forget it."

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

The House of Commons.

LONDON, March 7.—In the house of commons Gladstone said that the government desired to introduce an Irish land bill at the earliest possible opportunity. It was also said that the government never instructed Wood to ask the Boers for an armistice but it fully approved it. Dodson, president of a local government board, said that there was no trichinosis in England. He hoped that there was no real cause for alarm but in view of the action of foreign governments a circular address to local sanitary authorities has been printed enjoining medical officers and boards of health to carry out the provisions of the law authorizing examination of all pork exposed for sale.

The house in committee to-night on the arms bill adopted clause two after rejection of several amendments proposed by home rulers. During the discussion of clause three O'Donnell was suspended for disregarding the ruling of the chair after a scene in which the chairman's right to name a member was challenged by the home rulers. In the end the speaker had to be sent for to enforce O'Donnell's suspension. Clauses three and four were then adopted.

A Disgusted Irishman

A letter from Patrick J. Smith, home rule member of parliament for Tipperary, was read at a land league meeting Sunday. In answer to an invitation to the land league meeting Smith said that the policy of the land leaguers is stupid and criminal. It has sacrificed a just cause and dishonored the country. When I see Irish women forgetful of the modesty becoming their sex taking the stump or tours, and when I read of imbecile counsels promulgated one day from public platforms and withdrawn the next I hang my head for shame as an Irishman.

Irish Prosecutions.

LONDON, March 7.—Forster has started from Dublin for London. About forty warrants were issued before his departure. The government is still undecided as to what course it will take with Dillon.

DUBLIN, March 8.—W. J. [illegible] of Kilfinane, county Limerick, was arrested to-day on a charge of intimidation. Michael P. Boyton, land league organizer and one of the traversers, was arrested in Kildare on a charge inciting to murder and other acts of violence. When taken into custody he protested against the act in the name of the American republic. Walsh, Keogh and Boyton are lodged in Kilmainham prison.

Gratifying to Lowell

LONDON, March 8.—It is stated that Lowell, American minister, has received a private letter from President Garfield saying that it would be gratifying to him (the president) to know that Lowell would be willing to retain his present position.

A Big Stake

Entries for the pigeon shooting match for championship of the world challenge cup include Dr. Carver, Ira Paine and Scott.

Cause of the Silver Collapse

LONDON, March 9.—The Times says: The collapse in the silver market has been produced solely by the announcement of the India office that they would offer on Wednesday 50,000 pounds more than the usual amount.

Literary Competition.

LONDON, March 8.—The Royal Spanish Academy has decided to open a poetical competition in London to celebrate the forthcoming second century of the poet Callerdon de la Barca. Contributions to be in honor of Callerdon de la Barca and in the English language. The archbishop of Dublin, James Russell Lowell and Lord Houghton have been appointed jurors. The successful competitor will receive a gold medal from the academy and a diploma.

Attempt at Fraud.

LIVERPOOL, March 8.—Forged telegrams designed to cause the board of trade to take action against American pork, were received in the house of commons Tuesday last while an influential deputation of the Liverpool provision trade were actually there to interview Mundella, vice president of the council, and advise him against action similar to that of France. The telegrams purported to be from the secretary of the Liverpool provision trade. The police are investigating the matter.

Turkey turning out her own Ammunition

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 8.—A cartridge manufactory has been opened here provided with American machinery capable of turning out 30,000 cartridges daily.

Provisions for British Troops in South Africa.

NATAL, March 8.—Convoys with provisions have started for the beleaguered garrisons.

Negotiations with the Boers

DURBAN, March 8.—Gen. Wood informed the Boers that if peace was not concluded, he would assault Laingsnek immediately when the armistice ended. Gen. Wood says that he inferred from the tone of the Boers that they were desirous of peace.

Davitt's Cousin Arrested.

CASTLEBAR, March 8.—Joseph Walsh, arrested to-day, is a cousin of Michael Davitt. He was followed to the train by a large crowd cheering him and groaning at the police. Great excitement.

Naples Again Shaken Up.

NAPLES, March 7.—Another shock of earthquake was felt at Casamaciola to-day. Eleven more bodies have been found. The latest reports show that 126 people were killed and 1[illegible]9 injured by the former earthquake.

Many deeds of heroism were performed by the military. A Neapolitan sergeant plunged among the ruins of a fallen house and rescued a woman with her babe. A corporal saved a blind man who, unconscious of his danger, struggled with his rescuer. Harrowing scenes were presented at the mortuary chamber—mothers, wives and children striving to snatch the dead from the biers on which soldiers were carrying them away. Soldiers, police and doctors were immediately dispatched from Naples. Shortly before the first shock the mineral springs were observed to be in a state of ebullition.

Opening of Hyacinthe's Church

LONDON, March 7.—Pere Hyacinthe's first service at his new church was attended by a large and rather turbulent congregation.

WEST INDIES.

Simon Cameron at Havana

HAVANA, March 8.—Simon Cameron with friends celebrated his 82d birthday here to-day. Captain General Blanco extended him the freedom of the island. Cameron visited Moro Castle this morning and received many of his countrymen in the afternoon. His friends gave a dinner in his honor this evening. Cameron made a speech reviewing the important events in his life. During the banquet he was presented with a ring as a memorial. Later in the evening Cameron attended the opera by invitation of the captain general. Cameron is making a study of the tobacco growing system. He will sail for home Saturday next.

CANADA.

French Canadians Emigrating to the United States.

QUEBEC, March 8.—The exodus of French Canadian operatives from this vicinity to the United States continues.

Deadly Epidemics.

Scarlet fever and diphtheria prevail to an alarming extent at St. Henri DeLevis. Several families have lost all their children.

They have no barbers at The Dalles, but their places are more than filled by peerless tonsorial artists.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

The Senatorial Vacancies—Contest over an Empty Honor at Augusta, etc., etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The World's Albany special says: The stalwarts and half breeds are agreeing that Garfield's cabinet is strongly in favor of their respective factions.

Frye's Day

AUGUSTA, Me., March 8.—The legislature will elect a U. S. senator in the place of Jas. G. Blaine on the 15th inst.

Of Course

AUGUSTA, Me., March 8.—At a republican caucus of members of the legislature Wm. H. Frye was nominated by acclamation as candidate for the U. S. senate.

Caucus of Wisconsin Republicans.

CHICAGO, March 7.—The Inter Ocean's Madison (Wis.) special says: The republican caucus to nominate a United States senator met this afternoon [illegible]. Whole number [illegible], necessary to a choice 44. Cameron received 37, Keyes 24, Dixon 11, Williams 4, Hazelton 5, [illegible]. The [illegible] ballot resulted: Cameron [illegible], Keyes 27, Dixon 1[illegible], Williams 4, Hazelton 7, Bingham 1. [illegible] The caucus then adjourned till evening, the [illegible] opposing adjournment. Cameron's adherents then met and outlined a policy. There seems to be a general feeling that Cameron has polled his full strength and cannot be elected.

No Result in Wisconsin

MADISON, March 8.—Forty-third ballot for senator: Cameron 40, Keyes 19, Quarles 11, Dixon 15, scattering 10.

The Iowa Vacancy

DES MOINES, March 8.—As successor to Kirkwood in the senate, James F. Wilson, U. S. Attorney Lane, State Senator Hilbert, S. M. Clark, Judge Cole and U. S. Marshal John Chapman are the most favorably mentioned. There is no indication of Gov. Gear's intention in the matter.

The Minnesota Senatorship

ST. PAUL, March 8.—Governor Pillsbury has not yet received the resignation of Senator Windom and until he does will not appoint a successor. He is deluged with letters, recommendations, petitions, etc., in behalf of various aspirants, of whom Congressman Dunnell and ex-Secretary Ramsey are the most prominent. It is believed that the governor will appoint Ramsey.

National Guard Election

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—At a meeting of the National Guard Association the following officers were elected: President, Gen. Geo. W. Wingate of New York; first vice president, Adjutant Gen. T. [illegible] of New Orleans; second vice president, Gen. James W. Denver of Washington; recording secretary, [illegible] W. L. Alexander of Des Moines, Iowa.

Election of Railroad Directors.

ST. LOUIS, March 8.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the St. Louis, Wabash & Pacific railroad for the election of five directors was held at the company's office this morning, with the following result: Samuel Sloane of New York, George G. Haven of New York, Joseph [illegible] of Fort Wayne and Thomas Tuttle and Joseph F. [illegible] of St. Louis. Messrs. Sloane and Haven represent the Delaware and Lackawanna and New Jersey Central district interests.

Fire at Bolivar, Tenn.

BOLIVAR, March 8.—Sunday night a fire destroyed two buildings. Loss $2,000; insurance $1,500.

Conflicting Stories of a Railroad Accident

MILWAUKEE, March 8.—This morning the Republican and News obtained information that an engine on the Chicago and Northwestern railway had run into a gang of shovelers at Shapler, near Janesville, and killed twelve. It was learned yesterday afternoon that an accident had occurred killing seventeen men. The railroad officials deny that any accident has occurred [illegible] telegrams [illegible] from Janesville and the C. & N. W. [illegible] will not give particulars.

The Railroad Blockade Ended.

CHICAGO, March 8.—[illegible] The last of the Northwestern still further [illegible]. A dispatch from Pierre, Dakota, says that the first train from [illegible] for forty days arrived Saturday. [illegible] calculated that half the cattle in that section have perished of cold and starvation. Many letters received by the first mail yesterday since the storm began last Wednesday.

The Southern Route

DENVER, March 8.—The first through passenger train via the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad will leave Kansas City and Atchison on regular card time Thursday, March 1[illegible]th. Thereafter daily through trains will be run over that route, which is pronounced by travelers totally free from disturbances incident to weather.

Fatal Accident at Denver

By the falling of a building in course of construction on Laramie street this afternoon Patrick J. Smith was killed and Thomas Cowley had his back broken and has since died. Four other workmen were wounded, but none seriously. The accident was caused by poor construction.

Hayes at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, March 8.—President Hayes held an informal reception this morning, and goes to Fremont at 3:30 this afternoon.

Enthusiastic Reception to Hayes at Fremont.

FREMONT, March 8.—Ex-President Hayes and family arrived this evening and were met at the depot, which was finely decorated, by over 2000 citizens, who cheered the party enthusiastically. A reception committee of ten prominent citizens met the ex-president at Clyde and a large concourse of people formed a procession. All residences, public buildings and the street along the line of march were brilliantly illuminated with splendid effect. Hon. Homer Everett then delivered an address of welcome in which he referred to the genuine and hearty feeling of welcome showed by every class of citizens.

Entries for the New York Dog Show

NEW YORK, March 8.—More than 1000 entries have been received already for the dog show and the time for closing the list does not expire until the 5th of April.

Marine Disaster

NEW YORK, March 7.—The Tribune says: Incoming vessels report exceptionally severe weather. Pietro Sala, sole survivor of the bark Adjuee, was subjected yesterday morning at the Italian consulate to a prolonged examination as to the details of the disaster that befel that vessel. His statement was taken down in writing, to which he affixed his signature. The proceedings were conducted with the greatest privacy, but the Tribune reporter learned that many of his answers were at variance with the account he first gave.

The Italian bark Guiseppi Caparo, [illegible] for Bordeaux with a cargo of 26,310 bushels of wheat in bulk October 17, has not been heard from since. It is feared she is lost. She was commanded by Capt. Ansaldo and had a crew of 14 men.

The Italian bark Ivo is missing. She sailed from this port for Trieste with a cargo of [illegible]. She was commanded by Capt. Longaston and had a crew of 15 men. She was formerly the American brig Mary Goodell.

Another Account

A series of the most terrible shipping disasters occurred in the Aberdeenshire coast Saturday morning when no less than nine vessels were wrecked and 100 lives lost. One vessel was the Liverpool ship, Ben Rhydding, from Calcutta. All the crew, 30 in number, perished within sight of land, the rocket apparatus being unable to reach the vessel. The scene after the Rhydding struck was heart rending. Some of the crew were seen clinging to the rigging while others were hanging from it when the masts gave way. Twelve men went down with the main mast and four with the fore mast. No such storm is remembered within a century. It raged in Scotland from Thursday to Saturday.

Attempt to Blow Up the Insane Asylum at Topeka.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 7.—An attempt made to burn the insane asylum here Saturday night by incendiaries was unsuccessful owing to the splendid working fire apparatus kept at the asylum. After the fire was extinguished some paper, candle-wick and a package of powder, the latter still tied up as when purchased, were found. A crazy man who was wandering about town during the week is suspected and has been arrested. There were one hundred and thirty patients in the asylum, many of whom doubtless would have perished.

Non-Nepotism.

NEW YORK, March 9.—Notwithstanding the alleged objection by Postmaster General James to Pearson's appointment as New York postmaster on account of his being James' son-in-law, there appears to be a strong movement among the citizens and newspaper men here in Pearson's favor. He has been in the postoffice since 1860. His father was a printer and died in California in 1850.

A Defaulting County Treasurer

HANNIBAL, Mo., March 7.—Fred Diehl, treasurer of Marion county, in whose accounts a deficit was discovered some days ago, absconded last night and is supposed to have gone to California. Examination of Diehl's books show that his defalcation amounts to between $6000 and $7000. His bondsmen will make the deficit good.

Outrageous Murder at Little Rock.

LITTLE ROCK, March 7.—A horrible murder is reported from Jonesboro, Craighead county. Ben Ishmael went to mill a few miles from his home, leaving his daughter Mattie, aged 18, in charge of the house. On his return he found his daughter dead on the floor in a great pool of blood, her body being most horribly gashed and bruised with an axe.

The Bank Deposit Withdrawal Question Discussed—Argument of Both Sides.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—[illegible] the secretary of war. Attorney General MacVeagh is in Philadelphia arranging his private affairs. With this exception all the new cabinet officers attended the meeting [illegible]. The session of the cabinet was almost entirely devoted to discussion of the question whether or not the national banks shall be permitted to [illegible] with the treasury for the purpose of withdrawing their circulation. [illegible] consideration of the question was postponed until the next meeting of the cabinet. Meanwhile the comptroller of the currency and the treasurer of the United States will be asked to submit their respective views and all the facts bearing upon the subject. [illegible] completed within three weeks.

BLOODED STOCK.

ANNUAL AUCTION SALES

A Variety of Valuable Information Compiled with Correct Observations and Reflections.

PORTLAND, March 7, 1881.

The announcement by Messrs. Ladd & Reed of the Reedville Stock Farm in Washington county that they would offer for sale at auction this year and each year hereafter a portion of the highly bred trotting horses, cattle and sheep is an announcement which shows that our state is progressing rapidly in the breeding of select stock. Up to date the only Pacific coast breeder that has adopted this plan is St. [illegible] J. Whipple of San Mateo, Cal., whose fame as a breeder has been heralded from San Diego to Boise as the breeder of such deservedly famous trotters as Ajax, Harvest Queen, Lady Blanch and Fen Whipple, Crown Point, [illegible] and others that have stopped the watch below 2:30. But California had at least seven years' start of Oregon in the breeding of trotters, so that it is no wonder that many of our horse-fanciers turned their attention towards the Golden state instead of purchasing at home. In this connection a few words on breeders' auctions may not be amiss.

In Kentucky the annual auction system was first set in vogue by the late Robert Aitcheson Alexander, famed all over America as the owner during his lifetime of the renowned racer and stallion Lexington, the first horse that ever ran four miles below 7:20. Mr. Alexander was a man singularly constituted for the great work which has added so much material wealth to the taxable property of the four bluegrass counties of Woodford, Fayette, Scott and Bourbon. To excellent ability in matters of a financial character he united a uniform suavity of manner which drew men to him and held them there as with hooks of steel. And then he was so fair minded and free from prejudice withal. He never thought a horse was the best in America because he belonged to him, but bred freely from the stock of his neighbors wherever he saw evidences of merit. He saw the disadvantage under which horse breeders labored—the expense of developing the speed of their young horses that higher prices might be in future realized for other scions of the same stock—and resolved upon a new departure. Calling on his and several other prominent breeders of the section where he lived he proposed to them the idea of having all the stakes for trotting and running colts to close when the youngsters were but a year old. This practice had long been in vogue in England as to entries for those great annual events, the Derby, Oaks and St. Leger.

As might have been expected, he encountered strenuous opposition at the start, but his persistency finally triumphed and the stakes closed at yearlings. The same practice now prevails at New York and all other eastern points. This obliges colts to be sold as yearlings and throws the expense of cultivating the horse's speed upon the sporting fraternity, rather than upon the breeding element. Mr. Alexander was a man who never matched a horse nor bought a pool, and this action of his relieved himself and many others who never bet money, from the expense of training colts to increase their value. In order to facilitate sales and attract purchasers, he resolved upon public vendue without reserve and without by-bidding. This was also hooted at, but he was a man of too fine nerve to be easily shaken from his purpose. His first sale of yearling colts and fillies by the immortal Lexington included eighteen colts and eleven fillies, the former bringing $212 and the latter $194 as an average. The practice is still kept up by his heirs and in 1876 was sold the last batch of yearlings by Lexington averaging $676 for colts and $[illegible] for fillies. And as soon as the success of his plan became evident to his neighbors they adopted the same plan and to-day [illegible] the benefit of a system of which he was the main originator and from the early [illegible] of which he was the only pecuniary sufferer.

Now we find annual sales of thoroughbreds advertised by Hon. E. Hardin of Georgetown and Mr. A. H. Sanford, of Frankfort, as well as annual sales of trotting horses by R. [illegible] of Frankfort and W. T. Withers of Lexington. And the annual fever has extended to the heart of Tennessee where Gen. W. G. Harding holds forth within sight of the Hermitage in which Old Hickory drew his last breath. It was on Gen. Harding's farm that the great three year old Luke Blackburn was foaled. It was sold for $510 as a yearling, several others bringing over $1000 at the same sale. [illegible] were sold and the average price was $[illegible]. So it is evident that they did not think much of the now famous horse whose winnings last year in purses and stakes alone amounted to $[illegible]. Retribution with an emphasis was this. These sales are attended by experts, who buy colts for the leading American turfmen, such as Lorillard, [illegible] Keene, August Belmont and Governor Bowie. As soon as their owner receives notice of their purchase he nominates them in all the leading and noted events at Long Branch, Saratoga and Jerome Park. In 1880 the Lorillard stakes at Jerome Park amounted to $5,200 and in 1879 the Kenner stakes at Saratoga realized $7,250 for Falsetto. Hence you will see that a man can afford to pay $1000 for a yearling in that part of the world.

But in Oregon the case is vastly different. Here we have no annual races for colts which must be entered before they are two years old, and it is hardly known whether there will be fairs or not from one year to another. Two years ago it was predicted that there would never be another state fair at Salem, and yet the very next year the State Agricultural Society held the most successful fair they ever had. The great want of breeders, therefore, is the permanent establishment of annual stakes or purses for three year olds, to be closed before the colts are two years old. Whenever two or more associations inaugurate this plan then [illegible] will begin to breed fine horses for sale to those who do. Then we may look for valuable importations of blooded horses from abroad, as well as for better prices for everything produced at home, and the enterprising farmer who has a trotting bred colt may expect to realize remunerative prices for him before he is five years old. There is no reason why Oregon should not produce as good horses as any state in the Union, except California, which has quite an advantage in dry weather in the year, a fact that conduces materially to the development of the speed of the trotter. I write that Oregon is a great grass state and grass is the natural food of the horse and ox, while California has nearly three months less rain than we have and consequently [illegible] of good weather and are more [illegible] to admit of exercising horses. We have at least three months more green grass than California, and that the grass that makes the [illegible] of the quadruped.

In proposed sale of Ladd & Reed place them in the same condition of affairs with which Mr. Alexander had to contend in Kentucky sixteen years ago. They cannot look for remunerative prices this year or even the next, but [illegible] a system that will lead to good prices for any and all stock of real merit [illegible]. Whenever it becomes known that the sales are to take place annually and without reserve and without by-bidding, [illegible] who are interested in stock breeding, will take occasion to make holidays of these sales and visiting trips. [illegible] will be apt to get horses and cattle at pretty low figures, but just as soon as the fame of these sales becomes noised abroad there will be a lively competition among purchasers and Messrs. Ladd & Reed will soon reap their reward. It has been supposed by many that Mr. Reed's transfer of his railroad operations to New York had led to a severance of all the ties which bound him to the state in which he amassed his ample fortune, but such is not the case. Nor is this sale for the purpose of dissolving a copartnership between himself and Mr. Ladd, as many have conjectured. The sales will go on regularly from year to year, both of these gentlemen remaining the ruling spirits of what has been so aptly styled the Woodburn of Oregon.

The only rivals they need fear in this state will be apt to come from the Grand Ronde and Powder river valleys, whose enterprising citizens have long shown a great deal of pluck in [illegible]. First in the list is D. F. McAlister, of La Grande, who brought out a stallion called Dead Shot, a son of Alcalde and he a full brother to Alhambra by Mambrino Chief. This horse is a magnificent dapple brown with a head and neck like the war horse of Job himself. Near him is a quiet old Knickerbocker gentleman, Major Sterling, who has the nearest thing to my ideal of a model coach horse of anything in Oregon, a coal black stallion named Anvil by Ericsson, a son of Mambrino Chief. This horse can pull an omnibus as fast as an ordinary horse pulls buggies, and has since trotted in 2:30¼ to wagon at Lexington when four years old. Passing over into Powder river valley we find Hon. J. W. Windom with an elegant bay stallion named Challenger, not very tall but beautifully formed and of superb trotting action. He is a son of Almont, the horse that stands at the head of Gen. Withers' stud and has more sons and daughters in the 2:30 list than any other horse of his age in the world. And these are the gentlemen that our Willamette valley breeders will have to fear in future years, when Powder river and Portland are connected by railway, and the principal fair of the state is held here, where there is population to criticise the merits of good stock and where accommodation can be had without extortion.

Of the cattle offered for sale by these gentlemen it is not necessary for me to speak. The fame of the Reedville herd is a part of the history of the great state I am proud to call my own, and the choicest breeders of Idaho and British Columbia have used this herd as the fountain head for the brands of beef cattle they are now breeding. Eleven bulls will be offered at this sale embracing the most fashionable crosses in the American Herd Book. English breeders have been purchasing heifers at the Alexander estate for reshipment to England for the past eight years and it is no vague dream to predict that Oregon bred heifers may yet be shipped east from our state to take their place among the matrons of Woodburn or Thorndale Hollows. My own opinion is that the most valuable beef is abaft the heart. Now, all the great eastern cattle buyers will tell you that the common beef cattle of Oregon are twenty per cent heavier in the hind quarters than those of similar weight grown in Kansas, Colorado or Texas. Now if this tendency to gain increased weight in the loins and thighs is true of common cattle, why should it not likewise be true of pure bred stock?

One thing must impress itself upon the mind of all sagacious breeders: feed is not so plenty in Oregon as it was, and for that reason it will not pay to breed scrubby cattle or horses, for a poor worthless garran will eat as much grass as any son of Almont or Enquirer. The day has gone by in Oregon when any man can hope to get rich by playing cards in a doggery or steaming away in his dirty blankets while his cattle or horses get their own living, and fatten themselves. The successful stock-grower of the future will be the man who breeds to feed and feeds to breed.

Thanking you for your valuable space I now bring this rambling scrawl to an end. Disjointed and digressory though it is I feel confident I have afforded some nuts for rural philosophers to crack and withdraw for the time being.

OUR EXPORTS.

It is certainly gratifying to all true Americans to know that of late years our exports have largely exceeded our imports not alone in such staple articles as wheat and beef but in almost every branch of industry. Ten years ago nearly all the perfumery and toilet articles used in this country were imported from Europe; to-day we not only manufacture for ourselves but are large exporters to South America, China, Japan and the [illegible]. Swallowing POISON

Spurts of disgusting mucous from the nostrils or upon the tonsils, Watery Eyes, Snuffles, Buzzing in the Ears, Deafness, Crackling sensations in the Head, Intermittent Pains over the Eyes, Fœtid Breath, Nasal Twang, Scabs in the Nostrils, and Tickling in the Throat are

SIGNS of CATARRH.

No other such loathsome, treacherous and undermining malady curses mankind. One fifth of our Children die of diseases generated by its Infectious Poison, and one fourth of living men and women drag out miserable existences from the same cause. While asleep, the impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs to poison every part of the system.

Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure absorbs the purulent virus and kills the seeds of poison in the farthest parts of the system. It will not only relieve, but certainly cure Catarrh at any stage. It is the only remedy which in our judgment has ever yet really cured a case of Chronic Catarrh.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 9, 1881

A REBUFF ALREADY

The pressure for office at Washington is as great and importunate as at any former time. Every boss is there with his gang, [illegible] representing what he [illegible] as his state is concerned, [illegible] all of whom [illegible] he part [illegible] and are entitled to all the plunder in sight. During the four years of President Hayes these willful elements had a sorry time of it. The atmosphere of the executive mansion was always chilly when they came within it. But they have been waiting with [illegible] with confidence that everything would soon be cheerful and easy again, [illegible] and shooting out the tongue [illegible] suggestion of placing the civil service on any basis other than that of plunder and spoil. They boasted that when the white house should change masters the class to whom the offices properly belonged would come by their own again, succeeding to the inheritance out of which they had been kept by the crooked stick who had accidentally got into the presidential chair. Every boss has been waiting for the change. Bossism is at Washington in such force as never before. The vultures are there, but they begin already to obtain a hint that they are on the wrong scent for a carcass. Yesterday five hundred of them pressed into the white house only to learn that President Garfield was not expecting them, was not happy to see them and had nothing for them, save the cool announcement that no removals would be made. Very probably these gentlemen think the country in a bad way when loot hunters, whose trade so far as morals go resembles piracy, are denied their requests. A new deal all round would be an excellent thing in their opinion. During the last four years some independence has been permitted to persons filling official positions. Such independence has even been encouraged. Officials have been taught the heretical doctrine that their tenure did not depend on the pleasure of arrogant bosses. They have also been instructed that their chief business was to mind their official duties and not to devote themselves to the personal service of political gamblers who claim sovereign sway and servile allegiance in their respective states. President Garfield starts as if he purposed to continue this same policy. Things wear a discouraging look for the jobbers who had expected to clean out all the offices and fill them with their own parasites to do their political dirty work in coming elections. And they wear a discouraging look also for that multitude of persons who have talents only for small and obscure private employments, but who nevertheless, forsaking all employments for which their mediocrity is fitted, become flatterers and followers of some leading political buccaneer and give themselves wholly up to the one great pursuit of office-seeking and its attendant petty warfare of partisan vexation which their leader and patron requires them to engage in for his promotion and advancement. Good is coming out of Ohio. President Hayes set the ball a-going. Give President Garfield a chance. It looks indeed as if he were the man who could make the chance for himself.

IN LONDON WITH DICKENS

The most readable illustrated magazine article that we have seen for some years is one with the above caption in Scribner's Magazine for March. It opens with a view of Old Holborn, the location of the gin palaces mentioned in "Oliver Twist," and the reader looks as if expecting to see Fagin and the Dodger coming out and wiping their lips after surrounding a cocktail. There is the courtyard of the Marshalsea prison, recalling scenes in "Little Dorrit," and the house of the little doll dresser in Church street, Milbank. Next we are given the Limehouse Hole, where Rogue Riderhood lurked with murderous intent for the mate of the Indiaman. Lincoln's Inn Fields is next given, recalling the story of "Bleak House," and Lady Dedlock's lonely death by the graveyard of St. Dunstan, and there is Chancery Lane, too, immortalized in the same story. All these views recall the lost master whose every character was a representative man of some grade of English life.

The desire to see London that springs up in every American breast was planted there (or "growed," like Topsy) to no small extent from reading the writings of Dickens. It would be impossible for us to visit the scenes so graphically described in his books without going in quest of the men and women whom his facile pen created and immortalized. We could not leave Yarmouth Beach without looking for Mr. Peggotty, nor tramp Shoreditch after dark without a revolver to "stand off" the murderous bludgeon of old Riderhood. If our paths lay through Holborn in broad daylight, we should button up our pockets for fear of the Artful Dodger's presence, and in every blacksmith shop about Gravesend we should hunt up honest Joe Gargery. Should we be taken sick it would be impossible for us to hire a nurse without first stopping to inquire if she were Sairy Gamp or Mrs. Arris. And we would be tempted to lurk about any nautical instrument store for half an hour in the hope of seeing old Sol Gills issue from its portals, "the chockfulledest man of larnin and science," accompanied by Ed'ard Cuttle, mariner of England.

Such was the magnetism of the great humorist that the sunlight of his merriment dances on the walls of quiet homes in lands his feet were never destined to tread. The logger in his hut beside Puget's wave laughs at Micawber's chronic impecuniousness, when his axe is laid to rest, the cattle-herder of Eastern Oregon wants to whip Squeers for his cruelty to Smike after his lowing herds are corralled for the night; and the miner of Idaho, when pick and pan are cast aside for the day, sits down to weep with Little Nell. With the progress of steam and telegraphy, it is no vague dream to predict the Anglization of the entire universe in another century. And when the people of the whole world speak with a common voice their love will go out from a common heart to the genial and witty journalist who slumbers at Gad's Hill, under the very turf that once echoed with the solid tramp of fat Jack Falstaff as he ran away from Prince Hal and his three knaves in buckram.

Johnson, Pope and Shakespeare have each given us something of London, and students of literature in visiting the world's metropolis rarely fail to visit the localities which these and other great writers of former centuries have named. But the interest they create is an interest in themselves rather than in London. Their allusions are only incidental and therefore are more remote, while the great modern novelist has wrought the localities he has referred to into the very substance and feeling of his creations. What may be called the London feature of Dickens' novels will bear no small part in handing them down to successive generations of readers.

AMERICAN PROGRESS

Americans are boastful over the showing made by the census of 1880, and to show that their pride in their country is justifiable, the opinion of the greatest London journal, the Times, may be cited, which declares that no nation has ever exhibited a more magnificent picture of progress than is shown by the United States in the past ten years. "The addition to their population of eleven and a half millions in that time makes them, except China, Great Britain and Russia, numerically the greatest people on the earth." And the Times admits that such a number of citizens moved by similar impulses and recognizing common [illegible] the British [illegible] itself would be the greater. [illegible] "Fifty millions of human beings in a land like America more than match the [illegible] millions of European and Asiatic Russia. The three hundred and twenty-five millions of China are not to be compared with them as a force in mankind. The growth of population may be generally understood to imply the growth of wealth and resources. As such a census in a European state indicates a numerical advance, it may for the most part be inferred that fresh means of support have been made available. When however every successive census in the United States reveals an expansion by bounds and leaps, faith in the instinct of human nature not to multiply beyond the power of existence is scarcely needed to dissuade anxiety. The granary which is to feed the new millions which have come, the millions which are to follow, piles its stores for the whole world to certify them. Each added American citizen has not to search for the land the future hides somewhere or other for all its children. He is born or imported with his inheritance labeled and allotted. He has but to go west or north or south; there it is awaiting his advent.

European populations over the same population of Great Britain have with their decennial polls a look of boys growing out of their clothes. An [illegible] is sure to be seen betraying a want of proportion between past resources and present demands. On this side of the Atlantic there is a magazine of clothes warranted to fit all ages and sizes. Good soil is crying out everywhere for its owners to come and possess it. Americans have not to conquer and annex. Though the domain be lying desolate or be a hunting ground for Indians, it confesses itself their own for them to enter it and enjoy it as soon as they please. The sooner the better. How fresh thousands and hundreds of thousands of acres are continually being brought under tillage Europe requires no census ordered from Washington to tell. The west and the northwest are a home farm for the older hemisphere; the laborers on this side of the Atlantic hear the echo of each mile of territory broken up by the plow on that. The census shows that the growth is universal and not partial."

Of old it was held of more honor to be a Roman than to be a king. With a few more years of progress the highest title a man can possess will be that of a worthy citizen of the United States. That citizenship will be as much superior to any other as the mighty Columbia and Mississippi are superior to the Thames and the Mersey. The years of the decade which has been marked by this wonderful progress were years of extreme business depression, when there was an army of half a million tramps marching up and down the land. And yet the results astonish the great journal beyond the Atlantic. A writer on this side declares that this advance was through the work of not more than half of the people of the country. What might be, were all at work? What might be, were all impressed with the real importance of their country and all working for its glory and its material success? When as many more years pass as have passed since the coming of the Argonauts to California, even without annexing any more territory, the republic will contain 100,000,000 of people and will present a more gigantic physical power than ever before was arrayed under one flag. Dead empires will turn in their graves before the wonderful spectacle. It is time for Americans to look up and appreciate their place, and if for any reason they are not in accord with the principles that control and are to control the republic they should hasten to change, because nowhere else can they find a place where they can leave their children as honorable an inheritance as for them to be able to say, "civis Americanus sum."

Now that the report of the directors of the public schools of Portland is before the public, comparison as to cost per pupil with the schools of great cities may be worth a moment's attention. The whole expenditures on account of the Portland schools for the past year were $68,412. About $20,000 of this sum was however expended on building or other improvements, or required to meet interest, bills payable, etc. But this additional outlay will now be a pretty steady quantity, since the growth of the city will render necessary a constant increase of school facilities, and consequently a steady expenditure outside of the sum required for simple maintenance of the schools. Taking the sum of $68,412 as the outlay for the past year, and the average attendance at 2000, and we find the cost per pupil to be $34.25. The reports of the school boards of Boston and New York, just out, give the net cost per pupil in the first named city at $28.14, and in the last named at $29.06. A few years ago the cost in Boston was $36. It is probable that the average cost year by year of the schools of Portland, maintained under the present system, may be brought to about $30 for each scholar in attendance. This seems a fair conclusion from experience elsewhere. All cities now have a cumbrous and costly system, and the chief energies of their school managers are employed in making the machinery more and more complicated and applying the force necessary to drive it.

We have several times published the totals of population as reported by the census office. The following analysis has not, however, been hitherto published here:

Males	25,520,582
Females	24,632,284
Natives of the United States	43,475,506
Foreign born	6,677,360
Whites	43,404,877
Colored	6,577,151
Indians	65,122
Chinese	105,463

The number of Chinese in the United States in 1870 was 63,254. The gain therefore has been 42,209 in ten years. It is not alarming, particularly when it is observed that it is distributed over the whole country much more than heretofore. The enumeration of Indians does not include those living on reservations under charge of the government, but only such as have segregated themselves and set up on their own account. The increase of the colored race is prodigious and phenomenal. It has multiplied with a fertility that threatens to upset Malthus and prove him a fool. In 1870 the colored population of the United States was 4,886,387. It is now nearly two millions more.

A recent issue of the American Settler, a weekly journal published in London to attract immigration to the United States, contains a six-column-long article on Oregon. It is compiled from a pamphlet issued several months ago by the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, and is a fair and complete review of the attractions which our state offers to immigrants. Other similar articles will follow, so the Settler announces.

Dr. Howard Crosby of New York is a noted advocate of what is called the liberal view of temperance. That is, he considers total abstinence an impossible attainment and therefore impracticable, and would have temperance efforts devoted largely to substitution of mild drinks for ardent spirits. This doctrine is not [illegible] to most temperance advocates as an effective means of work. But Dr. Crosby persists. He charges the New York daily papers with [illegible] that they have failed to discuss his views on the temperance question, although they have frequently told him that they agreed with him. He also takes occasion to [illegible] the editors of some of the religious weeklies who have been abusing him. He says that two of these editors who denounce him for liberal views drink wine every day in the year. He [illegible] them therefore with hypocrisy and [illegible] on a grand scale. Nothing is [illegible] this [illegible] of argument [illegible] that the surest way to push the temperance movement is to [illegible] moderate drinking.

ENTIRE CHANGE.

Having just completed marking our goods at a

GREAT REDUCTION,

We are now prepared to offer our entire stock, which is complete in all its departments, at

SAN FRANCISCO'S LOWEST PRICES.

Why we have made this grand change is

1st. We are disposing of our retail business in San Francisco to make Portland our headquarters.

2d. Nearly all the desirable goods have been shipped up here to be sold.

3d. We have better facilities this year than ever before.

4th. We mean to lead the trade in our line, and the LOWEST prices for the BEST goods will bring it.

REMEMBER,

It is a pleasure, and not trouble, to show goods, when our prices invite opposition, but defy competition.

IN OUR
GLASSWARE DEPARTMENT

We have really done wonders, having reduced the entire line 50 per cent. This is no humbug, but come and be convinced. We are to-day giving more Glassware for one dollar than any other house in town for two dollars.

Having an extraordinary large stock in the above line, we feel justified in saying that we can satisfy the poor and rich, having cheap, medium and the very best Glassware made.

FOR OUR
CROCKERY DEPARTMENT

We can only repeat the above facts.

FRENCH CHINA.

We have just received, direct from France, 25 casks of that celebrated I. Haviland & Co. ELITE CHINA, the very best goods ever imported to this country, which we offer at a great reduction from former quotations.

We have entered into a large contract with the leading

BABY CARRIAGE FACTORY

East, which enables us to give a better carriage for the money than any other house on the coast, being of our own and direct importation.

OUR CUTLERY

Has been greatly reduced. We carry none but the BEST,

J. RUSSELL & CO'S GREEN RIVER CUTLERY.

LAMPS AND CHANDELIERS

We have marked down full one-third.

ALL OUR SILVERWARE AT A GREAT REDUCTION.

Desirous of LEADING the TRADE in our various branches, we have firmly concluded on Large Sales and Small Profits. A call will convince all that only FACTS are stated, and a cordial invitation is now extended to the public of Portland and vicinity to inspect our goods after the great change in prices.

A REBUFF ALREADY

The pressure for office at Washington is as great and importunate as at any former time. Every boss is there with his gang of applicants, representing that so far as his state is concerned he and his pets [illegible] the part [illegible] all the plunder [illegible] During the four years of President Hayes those whose claimants had a sorry time of it. The atmosphere of the executive mansion was always chilly when they came within [illegible]. But they have been waiting with [illegible] the confidence that every thing would soon be cheerful and easy again. Wagging the head and shooting out the tongue at the suggestion of placing the civil service on any basis other than that of plunder and spoils, they boasted that when the white house should change masters the class to whom the offices properly belonged would come by their own again, succeeding to the inheritance out of which they had been kept by the crooked [illegible] who had accidentally got into the presidential chair. Every boss has been waiting for this change. Bossism is at Washington in such force as never before. The vultures are there but they begin already to obtain a hint that they are on the wrong scent for a carcass. Yesterday five hundred of them pressed into the white house only to learn that President Garfield was not expecting them, was not happy to see them, and had nothing for them, save the cool announcement that no removals would be made. Very probably these gentlemen think the country in a bad way when loot hunters whose trade so far as morals go resembles piracy are denied their conquests. A new deal all round would be an excellent thing—in their opinion. During the last four years some independence has been permitted in persons filling official positions. Such independence has even been encouraged. Officials have been taught the heretical doctrine that their tenure did not depend on the pleasure of arrogant bosses. They have also been instructed that their chief business was to mind their official duties and not to devote themselves to the personal service of political gamblers who claim sovereign sway and servile allegiance in their respective states. President Garfield starts as if he purposed to continue this same policy. Things wear a discouraging look for the jobbers who had expected to clean out all the offices and fill them with their own parasites to do their political dirty work in coming elections. And they wear a discouraging look also for that multitude of persons who have talents only for small and obscure private employments but who nevertheless, forsaking all employments for which their mediocrity is fitted, become flatterers and followers of some leading political buccaneer, and give themselves wholly up to the one great pursuit of office seeking and its attendant petty warfare of partisan vexation which their leader and patron requires them to engage in for his promotion and advancement. Good is coming out of Ohio. President Hayes set the ball a-going. Give President Garfield a chance. It looks indeed as if he were the man who could make the chance for himself.

IN LONDON WITH DICKENS

The most readable illustrated magazine article that we have seen for some years is one with the above caption in Scribner's Magazine for March. It opens with a view of Old Holborn, the location of the gin palaces mentioned in Oliver Twist, and the reader looks as if expecting to see Fagin and the Dodger coming out and wiping their lips after surrounding a cocktail. There is the courtyard of the Marshalsea prison, recalling scenes in Little Dorrit, and the house of the little doll dresser in Church street, Milbank. Next we are given the Limehouse Hole where Rogue Riderhood lurked with murderous intent for the mate of the Indiaman. Lincoln's Inn Fields is next given, recalling the story of Bleak House, and Lady Dedlock's lonely death by the graveyard of St Dunstan, and there is Chancery Lane, too immortalized in the same story. All these views recall the lost master whose every character was a representative man of some grade of English life.

The desire to see London that springs up in every American breast was planted there (or "growed" like Topsy) to no small extent from reading the writings of Dickens. It would be impossible for us to visit the scenes so graphically described in his books without going in quest of the men and women whom his facile pen created and immortalized. We could not leave Yarmouth Beach without looking for Mr Peggotty, nor tramp Shoreditch after dark without a revolver to "stand off" the murderous bludgeon of old Riderhood. If our paths lay through Holborn in broad daylight, we should button up our pockets for fear of the Artful Dodger's presence, and in every blacksmith shop about Gravesend we should hunt up honest Joe Gargery. Should we be taken sick it would be impossible for us to hire a nurse without first stopping to inquire if she were Sairy Gamp or Mrs Arris. And we would be tempted to lurk about any nautical instrument store for half an hour in the hope of seeing old Sol Gills issue from its portals—"the chockfulledest man of larnin' and science"—accompanied by Ed'ard Cuttle, mariner of England.

Such was the magnetism of the great humorist that the sunlight of his merriment dances on the walls of quiet homes in lands his feet were never destined to tread. The logger in his hut beside Puget's wave laughs at Micawber's chronic impecuniousness, when his axe is laid to rest, the cattle-herder of Eastern Oregon wants to whip Squeers for his cruelty to Smike, after his lowing herds are corralled for the night; and the miner of Idaho, when pick and pan are cast aside for the day, sits down to weep with Little Nell. With the progress of steam and telegraphy, it is no vague dream to predict the Anglization of the entire universe in another century. And when the people of the whole world speak with a common voice, their love will go out from a common heart to the genial and witty journalist who slumbers at Gad's Hill, under the very turf that once echoed with the solid tramp of fat Jack Falstaff as he ran away from Prince Hal and his three knaves in buckram.

Johnson, Pope and Shakespeare have each given us something of London, and students of literature, in visiting the world's metropolis, rarely fail to visit the localities which these and other great writers of former centuries have named. But the interest they create is an interest in themselves rather than in London. Their allusions are only incidental and therefore are more remote, while the great modern novelist has wrought the localities he has referred to into the very substance and feeling of his creations. What may be called the "London feature" of Dickens' novels will bear no small part in handing them down to successive generations of readers.

AMERICAN PROGRESS.

Americans are boastful over the showing made by the census of 1880, and to show that their pride in their country is justifiable, the opinion of the greatest London journal the Times may be cited, which declares that no nation has ever exhibited a more magnificent picture of progress than is shown by the United States in the past ten years. The addition to their population of eleven and a half millions in that time makes them, except China, Great Britain and Russia, numerically the greatest people on the earth. And the Times admits that in the number of citizens moved by similar impulses and recognizing common ideals the British empire itself yields to the greater [illegible]. Fifty millions of human beings in a [illegible] the American more than match the eighty [illegible] millions of European and Asiatic Russia. The three hundred and twenty-five millions of China are not to be compared with them as a force among mankind. The growth of a population may be generally understood to imply the growth of wealth and resources. As such a census in a European state indicates a numerical advance it may for the most part be inferred that fresh means of support have been made available. When however every successive census in the United States reveals such expansion by bounds and leaps, faith in the instinct of human nature not to multiply beyond the power of existence is scarcely needed to reassure anxiety. The granary which is to feed the new millions which have come, the millions which are to follow, piles its stores for the whole world to certify them. Each added American citizen has not to search for the livelihood nature hides somewhere or other for all its children. He is born or imported with his inheritance labeled and allotted. He has but to go west or north or south, there it is awaiting his advent.

European populations, even the home population of Great Britain, have rather in their decennial polls a look of boys growing out of their clothes. An elbow or an ankle is sure to be seen betraying a want of proportion between past resources and present demands. On this side of the Atlantic there is a magazine of clothes warranted to fit all ages and sizes. Good soil is crying out everywhere for its owners to come and possess it. Americans have not to conquer and annex. Though the domain be lying desolate or be a hunting ground for Indians it confesses itself their own for them to enter it and enjoy it as soon as they please, the sooner the better. How fresh thousands and hundreds of thousands of acres are continually being brought under tillage Europe requires no census ordered from Washington to tell. The west and the northwest are a home farm for the older hemisphere, the laborers on this side of the Atlantic hear the echo of each mile of territory broken up by the plow on that. The census shows that the growth is universal and not partial.

Of old it was held of more honor to be a Roman than to be a king. With a few more years of progress the highest title a man can possess will be that of a worthy citizen of the United States. That citizenship will be as much superior to any other as the mighty Columbia and Mississippi are superior to the Thames and the Mersey. Five years of the decade which has been marked by this wonderful progress were years of extreme business depression, when there was an army of half a million tramps marching up and down the land. And yet the results astonish the great journal beyond the Atlantic. A writer on this side declares that this advance was brough the work of not more than half of the people of the country. What might be were all at work? What might be were all impressed with the real importance of their country and all working for its glory and its material success? When as many more years pass as have passed since the coming of the Argonauts to California, even without annexing any more territory the republic will contain 100,000,000 of people and will present a more gigantic physical power than ever before was arrayed under one flag. Dead empires will turn in their graves before the wonderful spectacle. It is time for Americans to look up and appreciate their place, and if for any reason they are not in accord with the principles that control and are to control the republic they should hasten to change, because nowhere else can they find a place where they can leave their children as honorable an inheritance as for them to be able to say, civis Americanus sum.

Now that the report of the directors of the public schools of Portland is before the public, comparison as to cost per pupil with the schools of great cities may be worth a moment's attention. The whole expenditures on account of the Portland schools for the past year were $68 412. About $20 000 of this sum was however expended on building or other improvements or required to meet interest, bills payable etc. But this additional outlay will now be a pretty steady quantity, since the growth of the city will render necessary a constant increase of school facilities, and consequently a steady expenditure outside of the sum required for simple maintenance of the schools. Taking the sum of $68 412 as the outlay for the past year, and the average attendance at 2000, we find the cost per pupil to be $34 25. The reports of the school boards of Boston and New York just out, give the net cost per pupil in the first named city at $28 14 and in the last named at $29 66. A few years ago the cost in Boston was $36. It is probable that the average cost year by year of the schools of Portland, maintained under the present system, may be brought to about $30 for each scholar in attendance. This seems a fair conclusion from experience elsewhere. All cities now have a cumbrous and costly system, and the chief energies of their school managers are employed in making the machinery more and more complicated and applying the force necessary to drive it.

We have several times published the totals of population as reported by the census office. The following analysis has not, however, been hitherto published here:

Males	25,520,582
Females	24,632,284
Natives of the United States	43,475,506
Foreign born	6,677,360
Whites	43,404,877
Colored	6,577,151
Indians	65,122
Chinese	105,463

The number of Chinese in the United States in 1870 was 63,254. The gain therefore has been 42,209 in ten years. It is not alarming, particularly when it is observed that it is distributed over the whole country much more than heretofore. The enumeration of Indians does not include those living on reservations under charge of the government, but only such as have segregated themselves and set up on their own account. The increase of the colored race is prodigious and phenomenal. It has multiplied with a fertility that threatens to upset Malthus and prove him a fool. In 1870 the colored population of the United States was 4,886,387. It is now nearly two millions more.

A recent issue of the American Settler, a weekly journal published in London to attract immigration to the United States, contains a six-column-long article on Oregon. It is compiled from a pamphlet issued several months ago by the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, and is a fair and complete review of the attractions which our state offers to immigrants. Other similar articles will follow, so the Settler announces.

Dr Howard Crosby of New York is a noted advocate of what is called the "liberal view" of temperance. That is, he considers teetotalism an impossible attainment and therefore impracticable, and would have temperance efforts devoted largely to substitution of mild drinks for ardent spirits. This does not strike most temperance advocates as an effective means of work. But Dr Crosby persists. He charges the New York daily papers with cowardice in that they have failed to advocate his views on the temperance question although they have frequently told him that they agreed with him. He also takes occasion [illegible] to tell the editors of some of the religious weeklies who have been abusing him. He says that two of these editors who denounce his liberal views drink wine every day in the year. He [illegible] them therefore with hypocrisy and [illegible] on a grand scale. Nothing is [illegible] method of argument can prove that the surest way to push the temperance movement is to advocate moderate drinking.

[illegible] CHANGE.

Having just completed marking our goods at a
GREAT REDUCTION.
We are now prepared to offer our entire stock, which is complete in all its departments, at
SAN FRANCISCO'S LOWEST PRICES.
Why we have made this grand change is
1st. We are disposing of our retail business in San Francisco to make Portland our headquarters.
2d. Nearly all the desirable goods have been shipped up here to be sold.
3d. We have better facilities this year than ever before.
4th. We mean to lead the trade in our line, if the LOWEST prices for the BEST goods will bring it.

REMEMBER,
It is a pleasure, and not trouble, to show goods, when our prices invite opposition, but defy competition.

IN OUR
GLASSWARE DEPARTMENT
We have really done wonders, having reduced the entire line 50 per cent. This is no humbug, but come and be convinced. We are to-day giving more Glassware for one dollar than any other house in town for two dollars.
Having an extraordinary large stock in the above line, we feel justified in saying that we can satisfy the poor and rich, having cheap, medium and the very best Glassware made.

FOR OUR
CROCKERY DEPARTMENT
We can only repeat the above facts,

FRENCH CHINA.
We have just received, direct from France, 25 casks of that celebrated I. Haviland & Co. ELITE CHINA, the very best goods ever imported to this country, which we offer at a great reduction from former quotations.
We have entered into a large contract with the leading
BABY CARRIAGE FACTORY
East, which enables us to give a better carriage for the money than any other house on the coast, being of our own and direct importation.

OUR CUTLERY
Has been greatly reduced. We carry none but the BEST,
J. RUSSELL & CO'S GREEN RIVER CUTLERY.

LAMPS AND CHANDELIERS
We have marked down full one-third.

ALL OUR SILVERWARE AT A GREAT REDUCTION.

Desirous of LEADING the TRADE in our various branches, we have firmly concluded on Large Sales and Small Profits. A call will convince all that only FACTS are stated, and a cordial invitation is now extended to the public of Portland and vicinity to inspect our goods after the great change in prices.

CITY.

Shooting Affray.—The telegram furnishes the following account of a shooting affray which occurred at East Portland Monday evening. Two young men aged about eighteen years named respectively Harry Hembrie and James McGrew have been at outs for some time past. Monday evening these young belligerents met. High words brought on blows. McGrew struck Hembrie with his fist and was about to repeat the blow when Hembrie drew a very small pocket revolver. At this McGrew ran across the street followed by Hembrie. About the time McGrew reached the opposite side of the street he turned, and just as Hembrie was in the act of firing, having his pistol close to and aimed at his head, McGrew threw up his right arm, which probably saved his life as the ball struck the fleshy part just below the elbow. There were but two or three eyewitnesses, a young man by the name of Powell and [illegible] with perhaps another lady. But [illegible] was fired owing perhaps to the interference. McGrew went immediately to Dr [illegible] who extracted the ball with but little difficulty. The shooting occurred on I street near Fourth. Justice McGuire issued a warrant for the arrest of Hembrie late in the evening, on complaint of [illegible] M Pittinger, deputy district attorney. McGrew's wound is of course somewhat painful but not at all dangerous. Hembrie was arrested at an early hour this morning by Constable Hill and taken before Justice McGuire. Upon motion of the defense examination was continued until last evening.

Effects of the Epizootic.—The sequel to the [illegible] prevalent among horses is now beginning to show itself in the way of lung fever, catarrhal fever and inflammation of the intestines. The latter is fatal if not immediately checked by powerful sedatives. Smith Bros & Co lost a valuable horse last Saturday from the effects of the disease. However inflammation has occurred in only a few cases and there are not a dozen cases of lung fever. But quite a number of catarrhal fever cases have been reported and are now under treatment.

The Piano.—In the concert by the Espinosa Company Monday night the world renowned Steinway patent "baby" Grand, the smallest grand piano manufactured, was used. This instrument combines all qualities adapted for the artist as well as fine music parlors. A number of these Grands are already in use in the best and most elegantly furnished residences of Portland's wealthiest citizens. The Steinway Grand will be used in the remaining concerts of the troupe.

Libeled.—The American ship Canada, which arrived at this port last Saturday, was libeled for debt yesterday, and is in charge, at present, of the U S marshal. The amount of the claim is $676 70, due the firm of Whitlock, Slover & Co, of New York. This amount it is claimed was due the firm before the Canada sailed from New York over a year ago. As yet no bonds have been fixed by the court and the vessel is in the custody of an officer.

State Circuit Court.—Yesterday in this court, the last jury case was on trial. Court will adjourn next Saturday until the next regular term, which will open on the second Monday in May. Up to yesterday the court had been in session 39 days. During the term there have been 27 jury trials; number of jurors sworn, 174; number of jurors serving on cases, 275; number of witnesses examined during the term, 312.

Corrected.—In the report of the proceedings of the farmers and merchants' meeting held at Salem last week as furnished The Oregonian for publication an error occurred which should be corrected. The report stated that J R Parish was chosen secretary and S A Clarke assistant secretary. The same should be reversed. The secretary of the meeting was S A Clarke, assistant secretary, J R Parish.

Precarious Condition.—The health of General Joseph Lane is stated to be in a very precarious condition, so much so that his family and relatives are greatly alarmed and entertain the gravest fears over the result. From parties arriving from Roseburg last evening it is learned that unless a change for the better takes place at once he will hardly survive another week.

Distribution of Salvage.—In the U S district court yesterday, in the case of Eric Johnson vs The schooner Emily Stevens, the following decree of salvage was entered: To the owner of the steam tug Columbia $949 75, Capt Eric Johnson, $250, pilot $[illegible], engineer, $170, fireman $80, three deck hands and the cook, $75 each.

Assault and Battery.—J W Fletcher, a young fellow who recently served a short sentence for stealing a watch from C M Foster, of the Emelie Melville Opera Troupe, was arrested last night charged with assault and battery on a woman named Evans, committed about six weeks ago.

Fell in a Fit.—Last night about 10 o'clock, Fritz [illegible], better known about town as "Old Fritz, the Butcher," fell in a fit at the St Louis Hotel on First street, between Taylor and Salmon. He remained unconscious for three hours, and it is thought that he will not recover.

Sentenced.—Judge Deady in the U S circuit court yesterday sentenced A A White to the penitentiary of this state for the period of three years. White was convicted of the crime of forging a postal money order at The Dalles some time last summer.

Popular Entertainment.—As many have requested a repetition of the Addison Fan Drill, it will be repeated at the Unitarian chapel, Friday evening March 11th. There will also be music and recitations. All are invited. Admission, 25 cents.

Indians for Forest Grove.—Rev John R Thompson of Olympia arrived in this city Monday evening with six Indian children from points on Puget Sound for the Indian school at Forest Grove. Mr Thompson will return to Olympia to day.

Charged with Burglary.—A Chinaman named Ah Luey was arrested last night charged with robbing the residence of Mr J C Todd, corner of West Park and B streets a week ago of $5 in coin and some silk handkerchiefs.

Waived Examination.—A telegram from New Tacoma states that the preliminary trial of Jack Shepherd came up yesterday. He waived examination and was committed until the meeting of the grand jury in July.

School Clerk.—Mr D W Williams announces himself a candidate for the position of school clerk of District No 1.

ESPINOSA CONCERT COMPANY

This (Wednesday) evening the Espinosa Concert Company will appear at Neppach's hall, East Portland. A very excellent programme will be rendered. The company is composed of artists, and a rare musical treat is in store for East Portlanders.

To morrow evening the company will give the second concert of the series at New Market theater. A new and very attractive programme will be presented. A matinee performance will be given Saturday afternoon. Saturday evening the fourth and last concert of the series will be given.

The company will appear at Vancouver Friday evening.

DEATH OF W. W. FRANCIS.

Last night at five minutes to eight Walter William Francis, manager of the Bank of British Columbia, died in his room in the bank building of malignant scarlet fever, which resulted in blood poisoning. He was taken sick last Thursday evening, grew gradually worse until 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he began to sink rapidly. A few friends who knew of his illness had strong hopes that his splendid constitution would withstand the ravages of the disease and only twenty minutes before his death a gentleman who knew him intimately refused to receive the physician's prediction that he could not live through the night. The news of his death will come as a shock to [illegible] many sincere friends, not only in Portland but all over the coast.

Mr Francis came to this city in 1868 and was for several years accountant in the bank, and for the last four years its manager. He was a prominent Mason having passed the chairs in Willamette Lodge No [illegible] and Portland Chapter No 3. He was a native of Bristol, England and had passed his fortieth year. His only near relative is an unmarried sister living near his birthplace.

The deceased was an honest, honorable man. [illegible] that he was kind and charitable. He was a thorough business man, very attentive to the duties of his position and in mercantile circles stood very high. Among his countrymen and indeed among all within the radius of a [illegible] he was deservedly popular.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity.

NEW TELEGRAPH LINES.

Mr D F Lealy superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Co for this portion of the Pacific coast gave the following information to a reporter of The Oregonian concerning new telegraph lines. It will be read with interest by all residents of the localities to be benefited, and by business men here.

A construction party will start this morning for Ainsworth and will, without delay, begin the building of a line from that point to Spokan Falls following the Northern Pacific railroad. The poles, wire, insulators etc, have been purchased and the line will be completed by early summer.

Next week a party will commence the construction of a line from Walla Walla to Grange City about [illegible] miles, bordering the O R & N Co's line, the rails of which was finished Monday.

The third new line will be from Puyallup to Carbonado a new station named for the Carbon Hill coal mines, distance 25 miles.

The Dominion government has bought from the Western Union company all their lines in British Columbia. The cable through the straits of Fuca will be abandoned and a line nearly all on land will be run from La Conner, 70 miles, to the boundary to connect with the Dominion line.

The Western Union, to accommodate constantly increasing business, have put up a second wire to Walla Walla, which has been in operation since the 1st inst.

THE NEW INSANE ASYLUM

Certain Portions of the Plans of Each Architect Adopted

The board of commissioners for the erection of an insane asylum building having considered the plans submitted by the various architects have concluded that while many of them are entitled to great merit and exhibit marked skill upon the part of the designers yet none of them possess the qualifications entitling them to adoption as a whole. None of them, in fact, have been prepared in all respects in accordance with the terms of the advertisement under which they were submitted, although all have evidently been submitted in good faith. Under the circumstances surrounding the construction of the building, and owing to some necessary changes adopted under the advice of the board of physicians called in to consult with them, the board of commissioners feel authorized only to adopt certain portions of each of said plans in the selection of which it is believed by the board, that they will average so nearly equal that but little if any preference will be given to any particular plan. It has been therefore ordered by the board that the following architects, Messrs Krumbein, Lewis, Whit[illegible] Sherwin, and Clark & Upton, be allowed $200 each upon condition that he or they allow their plans to remain in the possession of the board until such portions so adopted can be transcribed into a general plan embracing all selected portions.

TWENTY-FIRST ANNIVERSARY.

For a score and one years the Portland Hibernian Benevolent society has been at its work of aid and love among the Irishmen in this city, and on the 17th of this month will celebrate its arrival at majority or its twenty first anniversary. It is composed of the best sons of the Emerald Isle who have made their homes in this far western land, and their annual reunions are made occasions of rare enjoyment to those who participate. The usual social party and ball will be given in the evening at Turn halle, on which occasion it is assured the most complete arrangements will be made for the enjoyment of all present. The objects of the society are to furnish relief to its members whenever needed, cultivate a love of country, cement the bonds of friendship among the Irish people and pay the last tribute to those who pass away. It has in a quiet, unostentatious way done a great deal of good and stands in the front rank of the benevolent organizations of Portland. Former entertainments given by the society render complete the assurance that that fixed for the 17th inst will be entirely successful.

METHODIST CONVENTION.

EPITOME OF THE FIRST DAY'S PROCEEDINGS

Interesting Discussions on Various Topics Connected with Sunday School Work—Officers Elected, etc, etc.

The Methodist Episcopal church convention met pursuant to call of the committee, at Taylor street church this city at 9 o'clock A M yesterday. The convention was called to order by [illegible] and opened by religious services conducted by Rev John Flynn.

Rev W R Roberts was elected chairman of the convention and W G Simpson secretary. Rev J H Acton delivered a very interesting address of welcome, after which the first topic of the program, viz "Sabbath School Literature and Helps" was taken up, J K Gill leading in the discussion. Mr Hoberg, Mr Kelly, [illegible] Fowler and others followed. Objection was made to the use of helps in the Sunday school so as to exclude the use of the bible in the study of the lesson. In many instances the lesson leaves were entirely depended upon and as a result the children got but a superficial knowledge of the bible.

At 11 o'clock the second topic, viz "Support of Sabbath Schools and their relation to the church" was taken up. Mr [illegible] opened the discussion and was followed by Messrs Doane, Fowler, Hamilton and others. The discussions were interesting and instructive. The problem of the attendance of Sunday school children upon the public services of the church [illegible] interest. [illegible] Sunday school was a nursery of the church, the sermon should be adapted to the children as well as to adults. [illegible]

At 11 [illegible] the topic "The conversion of scholars" was taken up. Rev [illegible] introduced the topic. He said the main object of Sunday school work was the conversion of the children; that teachers ought to aim at this result. It could be accomplished. He gave several instances of earnest workers where all or nearly all the members of classes in Sunday schools were converted to Christianity.

The topic "Union Sunday schools" was then taken up.

Rev [illegible] Paul opened the [illegible] that union Sunday schools as a general thing were failures.

Mr Hoberg thought [illegible] would rather assist in carrying [illegible] than [illegible] was always a [illegible] growing out of the Union schools. He would not send to work in union schools when denominational schools could be supported.

Hon J F Caples claimed that there were very few real Union schools. He believed in Union Methodist schools—thought they were the best and most successful. Other excellent remarks were made, mostly favoring denominational schools. Yet a very liberal spirit was manifested, evincing a strong desire to build up Christianity through Union effort where denominational schools cannot be sustained.

Ex Gov Gibbs invited the members of the convention to visit the Portland library.

The hour having arrived the convention adjourned to meet at 1 30 P M.

This first session of the convention was quite well attended and a great deal of interest and enthusiasm prevailed.

Afternoon Session

Religious services were conducted by Rev James Matthew.

Rev M Judy was appointed reporter for the press.

At 2 P M the topic "Infant Classes" was taken up. Mrs E Smith of East Portland gave a very excellent address, occupying most of the time allotted for the topic. Mr Doane, Mr Fowler, Mr Acton and Mrs Carson followed with remarks encouraging the effort for the conversion of children of the infant class.

At 2 30 the topic "Sunday School Records" was taken up. Mr Clarke read an interesting paper on the subject. Mr Hoberg and others followed. The importance of keeping records and minutes in a proper way of all the work of the school was insisted upon.

The president appointed Revs Tosier and Parsons committee on credentials.

Rev S A Starr was appointed assistant secretary.

At 3 P M was taken up the topic "Sunday School Music." Dr Hall leading in the discussion. His address was quite interesting. He spoke of the importance of music and of cultivating sacred music. Everyone ought to be able to either sing or play on some instrument.

The proceedings of the convention were interspersed at intervals with music.

Answers to Questions were called for. Several questions of interest were asked and satisfactorily answered.

At 3 45 Mrs H K Hines read an essay on the topic "What should we teach?" followed by Revs Benson, Hoberg, Acton, Mr Gill and others in discussion. Among other things to be taught the distinctive doctrines and methods of Methodism were emphasized. While sectarianism, if taught and insisted upon, would evidently do harm, it is true that other churches teach their children the doctrines and usages of their denominations and they keep their children better than we. We should teach our doctrines and methods.

4 15 topic "What have we learned at the Convention?" One said "I have learned that we as Methodists are Methodists." He had attended a Baptist convention and they were Baptists. He was glad of it. Now he felt there was life in Methodism. The attendance and enthusiasm here indicated [illegible] healthy growth.

Session adjourned to meet at 7 30 P M.

Evening Session

Rev Wm Roberts in the chair.

The topic "The Model Superintendent" was introduced by Rev Hoberg. He said the qualifications of a good superintendent were: First, he must be a man of unsullied character; second, be prompt; third must possess tact; fourth must do all his talking before school hours.

Mr Gill thought the remarks already made were good.

Mr A[illegible] said: One thing in a good superintendent was to hold his tongue, rule and govern by a quiet manner. We need superintendents with snap as well as tact.

The topic "The Model Teacher" was taken up, Mr Gill leading in the discussion. He said it was granted the object of Sunday school work was to impart religious knowledge. The teacher is the superintendent of his class. He must impart this knowledge. Model teacher needs hands, eyes, ears, tongue, heart. First, must have love; second be regular in attendance; third must possess the art of getting the attention; fourth, must have a prepared lesson; fifth must use the bible in the class; sixth have a personal interest in each member of his class; seventh, must observe order himself; eighth, must have a plan, and work it. Piety, tact and many other things must enter into the character of a model superintendent.

Others followed in the discussion.

Hon Mr Caples moved that the essays on the topics of the evening be published in the P C Advocate; carried.

9 o'clock—Answering of questions.

All the sessions of the day were well attended and a great interest was manifested throughout. The session adjourned.

PRIZE MEDALS.

The Thompson Medals Offered to Pupils of our Public Schools

Three Cash Prizes for Essays Offered by the Chancellor of Washington University, of St Louis, Mo

Hon D P Thompson has offered gold medals to the [illegible] and grammar schools [illegible] excellence in reading. The [illegible] grades of [illegible] schools are permitted to contend. The offer is made subject to certain conditions [illegible] by the board of directors on Saturday [illegible] 1881.

SUBJECTS AND AGREEMENTS

1 Each contestant must have been a regular pupil of the department to which the medal is offered for a term of five months immediately prior to the contest.

2 Each contestant must state to the committee that no special lessons have been taken from a professional elocutionist during the twelve (12) months immediately prior to the contest, and no such [illegible] must be a teacher in the public schools and whose services therefor are rendered without compensation, and in that case such as are members of an elocutionist's class may avail themselves of such help and services.

3 [illegible] who has once [illegible] a medal will not again be permitted to contend [illegible], but all other [illegible] pupils may always contend for the high school medal until they become members of the high school. [illegible] In first test condition will apply only to the first contest [illegible].

4 The first medal shall be awarded in June 1881 and annually thereafter in June of the succeeding four years.

5 In case other grammar schools are instituted within that period, a medal will be offered each school.

6 [illegible] committee who shall make all necessary regulations subject to approval of board of directors; such regulations [illegible] must not conflict with any regular work of the public schools.

7 The medals to be of solid plating [illegible] with devices and inscriptions agreed to by the [illegible] city superintendent.

8 The medals will be known as the "Thompson Medals for excellence in reading in the Portland public schools."

PRIZES FOR BEST EXAMINATIONS AND ORIGINAL ESSAYS ON THE HISTORY OF SOUTH AMERICA OFFERED BY THE CHANCELLOR OF WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY OF ST LOUIS MO

Three prizes (coin) of $25, $15 and $10, for first, second and third best work. To be awarded during the month of June, 1881.

Open to all public school pupils in the state of Oregon. Examinations will be conducted by a committee to be selected during the coming month, and the examinations will be held in Portland.

There will be one written examination on a set of questions prepared by the committee, and one essay on some topic to be named by the committee at the time. Each task must be finished within three (3) hours. Two consecutive forenoons will be occupied in the work.

All work to be done in the presence of the committee. Certificates will also be issued to successful parties.

Each contestant must have been a regular member of some public school in the state for at least three months between Feb 1 and time of contest.

As contestants are invited from classes of different grades the element of age and grade will be considered in the final award.

The committee will fix the exact date and make other rules for the contest of which due notice will be given.

For more particular information address Rev T L Eliot, Portland.

Jacksonville Sentinel: Some of the very richest land in this county is along the bottoms of Applegate creek and its yield when properly tilled seems marvelous. On the farm of S A Cook there was planted last year on one-third of an acre in carrots that yielded eighteen tons or at the rate of fifty four tons to the acre. Three acres of potatoes on the same ranch yielded twelve hundred bushels of potatoes. Mr Cook says he has found the carrots to be the best and cheapest feed ever given to milch cows, and that his horses will reject oats for them.

Washington Territory.

Hanson Ackerson & Co, of Tacoma mill will, during the present season erect another mill with about equal capacity, alongside of their present property. The company is in a most prosperous condition, and is crowded with orders.

All the lumber mills on the sound belonging to the combination are now running on three fourths time. Most of the ports mechanics and employes of the machine shops are working on full time. It is rumored that all the mills will start up on 12 hour, or full time either the 15th of this month or on the 1st of next.

Wesley Whitener sheriff of San Juan county died suddenly a few days since. He had just finished his day's labor and going to the bed whereon two of his children were lying said, "make room for me, I must rest awhile." He lay down and died almost instantly and without a struggle. He was an efficient officer and greatly respected.

Transcript: Mr Turpin would be pleased to have all the old settlers who came to the territory during and prior to 1853 to send him at Olympia their picture to be placed among those already collected as a remembrance of the men and women who were the pioneers of the settlement of Washington territory. Mr Turpin has already collected some three or four hundred pictures of these pioneers.

TO IMPROVE THE BAR.

Hydraulic Force in Driving Piles and in Deepening Channels, and its Application to the Improvement of Mouth of the Columbia

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

It is far from my intention to say anything in the [illegible] statement I may make to reflect on any plans that local engineers may have for the improvement of the Columbia river bar. I wish only to suggest a plan of driving piles [illegible] in sand and [illegible] by hydraulic force, which [illegible] plans [illegible] Columbia river [illegible] at all.

[illegible] San Francisco [illegible] steamship [illegible] after the [illegible] hydraulic [illegible] that [illegible] piles [illegible] Fort Stevens [illegible].

My plan for the improvement of the Columbia river bar would be to start from a point [illegible] Fort Stevens on the beach so that the work will protect the fort from further encroachments from the sea. [illegible] I would drive four rows of piles to a depth of fifty feet [illegible] in two [illegible] the center [illegible] apart [illegible] which I would set piles of [illegible] feet length in such a manner that sand [illegible] would be free to [illegible]. These would stick probably twelve to twenty feet [illegible] from natural sand spit [illegible] crib work which will be permanent. The piles should be set not more than two feet apart and capped at least 14 feet above the highest tides. The pumps, derricks etc can be moved on a tramway laid on the caps. The course for this piling I would recommend to be on a line with the easterly border of Clatsop spit extending north to a point opposite to the west end of Sand Island. So that there will be a space left to the north between this point and Cape Disappointment of one mile and a half. With the channel confined to this limit I believe there would be a depth of not less than 35 feet on the bar at low water.

One thing I am certain and that is there is no known process besides the hydraulic process by which piles can be set in those sands at the mouth of the Columbia to stand permanently. If the depth of sand is sufficient to admit of setting piles long enough for purposes required, a breakwater of piles and crib work is sufficient for the permanent improvement. I estimate such a work to cost $50,000 per mile.

As a temporary improvement I suggest the use of the hydraulic in continuing the deepening across the middle sands begun by Col Gillespie with the harrow. I made a channel in which to bring out the City of Dublin from her stranded position by the use of the hydraulic. It was a success although the vessel went ashore again after she was out in the channel. The hydraulic can be used from the deck of a steamer fitted up for the purpose last named at very small cost.

Taking in view the comparative amount of water in the Columbia as compared with the Sacramento I believe that it is only necessary to confine the outlet to a like channel as at San Francisco with even a greater depth of water than is on the bar at the Golden Gate.

Although many are predisposed to lung trouble from birth, yet even such may escape consumption or other pulmonary or bronchial disease if due care and watchfulness be observed and all exciting causes are promptly treated as they arise. It is in these cases Dr Jayne's Expectorant exercises its most beneficial effects and has produced the largest proportion of its cures. Besides promptly removing Coughs and Colds which when left to themselves are the immediate causes of tuberculous development, this standard remedy allays any inflammation which may exist, and by promoting easy expectoration, cleanses the lungs of the substances which clog them up and which rapidly destroy when suffered to remain.

A GOOD WATCH FOR $5.
We have just received, direct from the manufacturers, an invoice of the celebrated Waterbury Watch, which we offer at the low price of $5 each. This is not a toy, but a real Stem Winding Watch, strong and durable in all its parts, and calculated to do good service for years; a Watch too simple in its construction to be likely to get out of order, the parts of which are interchangable and can be replaced at a trifling expense, if broken. Mailed to any address on receipt of price. A liberal discount to the trade.

New Wharf Boat Launched at The Dalles.

THE DALLES, March 8.—The new wharf boat was launched this afternoon at 4:30. About 20 persons were on board, mostly employes of the company. The dimensions of the boat are: Keel, 250 feet; width of beam, 50 feet, built to suit an incline depth of hold,—one end five feet, at the other end eight feet. The Harvest Queen towed her into position near the present landing.

A Find of Water.

A report is current in town of a subterranean eruption on Dutch Flat, about 10 miles southeast of this city. On Sunday noon while parties were excavating a hole sixty feet in diameter it immediately filled with water. The report is not confirmed. This has been heretofore a very dry locality.

Among the notable visitors here to-day were ex-Governor Downey, of California, and Commander Glass, of the United States navy, and bride.

NEWS NOTES FROM SALEM.

[REGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

SALEM, March 8, 1881.

Hugh Willis, formerly of this city, has returned to his old home in Texas.

Harry Babbitt has returned from his trip to California, and is looking well.

The amended school laws have been distributed among the various county school superintendents.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Morris will officiate at St. Paul's Episcopal church in this city this (Tuesday) evening.

W. F. Boothby, superintendent of construction of the Oregon insane asylum, is confined to his room by illness.

O. F. Morton, formerly night clerk at the Chemeketa Hotel, has been appointed one of the guards at the penitentiary.

Drs. S. R. Jessup and Will L. Wade have purchased the drug store formerly owned by Mr. Hubbell, on Commercial street.

Dr. D. Taylor, of this city, sprained his ankle severely while working on his place at Snowden Springs a few days since.

Hon. William Waldo, of this city, was among the lookers-on at President Garfield's inauguration at Washington on Friday last.

Sam. W. Church, E. Meyer and F. R. Parmenter are among the Salem merchants who will go to San Francisco on the outgoing steamer.

Gus Ball, formerly of Portland, has accepted a clerkship in T. C. Smith's drug store here, where we feel confident he will make many friends.

Capital Engine Co. No. 1, will pay a fraternal visit to Tiger Engine Co. No. 2, on the occasion of their regular meeting to-morrow (Wednesday) evening.

Capt. J. B. Lister, formerly state librarian, and Ben Hirsch, formerly of this city, are officers in the A. O. U. W. Lodge at Pomeroy, W. T., where they are in business.

Rev. E. F. McLafferty is announced for a lecture before the library societies of the Willamette University on Friday evening next. Subject "Lady of the Lake in Prose."

The talked-of purchase of a new steam fire engine for the Salem Fire Department, has received a slight backset in the way of a remonstrance signed by certain well known citizens.

Ed. N. Edes has commenced the study of book-binding in dead earnest, having accepted a situation in Mrs. C. D. Snyder's well known establishment. The trade has peculiar attractions for the boy.

W. S. Barker, of Salem, and Sam. J. Stanner, of Polk county, have been appointed guards at the penitentiary, to watch the convicts working on the clay pile for the manufacture of brick for the insane asylum.

The following notaries public have recently been appointed: J. W. Bennett, Empire City; J. W. Rayborn, Corvallis; L. M. Parrish, Portland; J. B. Lane, East Portland; Aaron Frazier, of Lafayette, and Samuel Jennison, of Boston, Mass., as commissioner for Oregon, to reside in that state.

Charles B. Moore, of Illinois, who spent several months in this city last year, having returned home, already yearns for Oregon, and insists upon it that his talisman of "good luck," a horseshoe, presented him by a young lady of this city, will yet favor him with an opportunity of returning to the home of his adoption.

The following gentlemen have made application before the supreme court for admission to the bar: George R. Skipworth and W. C. Palmer, of Albany; Seth R. Hammer and C. A. Johns, of Salem; Thomas Fitzgerald, Henry McGinn and Jonathan Bourne, of Portland; J. W. Bennett, of Empire City, and J. C. Fullerton, of Roseburg. They will be examined this afternoon.

The annual school meeting for this district was held at Reed's Opera House last evening, an unusual large number of our citizens, including several well known ladies, being present. J. W. Cox presented his annual report as clerk, which was adopted. Also the report of the directors, including the levy of a four mill tax for school purposes, without discussion or a dissenting vote. The election of a new director and clerk will take place on Monday next, George P. Litchfield, Esq., and Dr. L. L. Rowland, both being put forward by their respective friends as candidates for director, and a young man named Stewart being about the only one spoken of for clerk.

U. S. Bonds—5s of '81, 103¾; 4s, 117.

TUESDAY, March 8, 1881.

The European market is off again and American markets are, of course, affected. At Liverpool prices are lower and "there are no buyers;" at New York and Chicago the market is dull and lower in sympathy; at San Francisco shippers are only buying as they are compelled to; and here there is nothing of consequence doing. Prices have fallen somewhat, and $1 27½ per cental may be said to be an outside figure.

The Glencarn, the only available disengaged ship in the river, is held at 85 shillings. A vessel to arrive in April was chartered yesterday at 80 shillings.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The clipper freight market remains unchanged. There is a fair amount of freight offering, including some freight for railroad contractors; but the market is not as lively as was expected. Rates remain very firm at last quotations. Isthmus and overland freights are also more or less quiet. The season for the latter has hardly commenced, while at the same time a number of shippers are holding back in expectation of obtaining better rates by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad, which, it is announced, will be ready to take freight in the course of three weeks. Latest advices are to the effect that this road has connected with the Southern Pacific and is laying down side tracks, building depots, sheds, etc. In the meantime the freight agent is preparing a tariff of rates, which will be made public in a few days. Whether the tariff will offer any advantages over the present road, or whether both will work in harmony, is not known, but of course shippers desire that there should be no harmony.

Markets with few exceptions are quiet.

EASTERN WOOL MARKETS.

Better Business at a Decline at Boston and Philadelphia—Quotations for Past Week.

BOSTON, March 8.—There is a fair demand for wool at the decline noticed last week. Indications are that the stock will be considerably reduced this month, as holders are disposed to meet the views of buyers rather than carry stocks much longer. Good lines of Ohio and Pennsylvania XXXX fleeces are selling at 43@45c; Wisconsin and Michigan X fleeces 40@42, with very little to be had under 41, and most desirable lots firm at 42; combing and delaine, coarse 46@48 for fine delaine and 48@50 for fine medium combing. Unwashed wools quiet, 17@23 for coarse, low and fine, 30 for medium and choice. Clothing, California is in better demand with sales at 15@27 for fall and 22@34 for spring. Pulled wools have been in steady demand at 35@50 for super and 35@45 for X. Eastern and Maine cannot be quoted above 48@50. Australian, Montevideo and other foreign wools are in fair demand, and the stock of Australian is very much reduced.

Philadelphia Wool Market.

PHILADELPHIA, March 8.—Wool is more active at lower prices. Oregon fine 25@30c; medium, 32@35c; coarse, 29@30c; New Mexican and Colorado fine, 15@19c; medium, 17@23c; coarse carpet wool, 17@19c.

London Wool Sales.

LONDON, March 8.—To-day 8800 bales of wool were sold, principally New South Wales and Victoria. Moderate spirit at previous rates.

Cincinnati Whisky Quotation.

CINCINNATI, March 8.—Whisky—Fair demand; lower; 7.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of Disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease, have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in the case, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit these diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.
